■ Week 1 June Market Signals (8 categories)

▲ up · — flat · ▼ down — based on Naver DataLab search trends (※ May used as the latest complete month; Jun 1 excluded as a single-day figure)

Non-Alc · Low-ABV Beer ★Feature ▲

May search 61.7 (Feb 51.9 → up) · entering summer peak (Jun-Aug)

An independent category created by the "sober" generation. Market ₩20B → ₩95.6B by 2027 (Euromonitor). Reinforce Cass 0.0 / Terra Zero lines in hotel, izakaya, home-drinking channels. Featured this issue (PART 04).

Domestic Beer (Lager) ▲

May 11.6 · annual search peak each July

Entering the Jun-Aug surge in draft/bottle turnover. Recommend pre-securing Cass/Terra/Kelly draft stock. Order cycle begins for hof, pocha, and outdoor-bar channels.

Imported Beer ▲

May 3.7 · summer peak Jun-Aug · Asahi Style Free launches in Korea Jun 1

Asahi "Style Free" (zero-sugar) launching Jun 1 creates crossover demand (imported + non-alc). Summer lagers like San Miguel and Tsingtao rise together. Pre-stock hotel and Southeast-Asian-concept venues.

Sake + Sushi-Sakaba ▲

May 38.1 (Feb 35.4 → recovering) · strong Seongsu Japanese-food cluster

New dachi/izakaya concentrating in Seongsu (Moktan & Kitpou this issue). Dassai/Hakutsuru pairings + highball bases. Remains a priority recruitment category.

Highball ▼

May 5.5 · sharply down from last year's peak · range-bound

Standalone highball bars remain stagnant. Drives check size only when combined with izakaya/sushi-sakaba. Standalone new entry not advised — vary with non-alc highball (e.g., Colombo).

Wine (Natural) —

May 23.6 · soft in spring low season · explosive year-end (Dec) pattern

Natural wine bars keep opening in Yeonnam/Hannam/Gwanggyo, but search is in low season. Good timing to open and build regulars before the December surge. Reinforce the lineup from November.

Makgeolli · Traditional Liquor —

May 24.2 · flat in spring low season

Premium makgeolli bars like Muwol Hannam and Hangang Jujo hold steady. Reliable as a Korean-pub pairing channel. Prepare the lineup for the fall/year-end dining season.

Soju / Whisky —

Soju 14.3 weak · whisky 34.2 declining after winter peak

Soju is in summer low season with new-product hype cooling. Whisky is down in spring, but demand for whisky-bar highball / non-alc highball bases remains (Kakubin, Balvenie).

Key Message — Three Summer Beers Rise Together; "Non-Alc" Becomes the 4th Axis

▲ Summer peak

Week 1 June signals = domestic lager, imported beer, and non-alc all entering the summer peak together. The biggest change this year is that non-alc has solidified into an independent category. ① Asahi Style Free launch (Jun 1) ② Korea's opener Jun 12 — all Korea matches are morning games (morning cheering + non-alc demand) ③ healthy-pleasure/diet season overlaps, starting summer orders for hof, pocha, hotels, and home-drinking. Meanwhile highball, wine, makgeolli, soju, and whisky are flat in low season — standalone entry not advised.

★ Non-Alc Spotlight — search stabilized (May 61.7) after its 2024 peak (100), yet the market is projected ₩20B → ₩95.6B (2027, Euromonitor). Cass 0.0 leads home share (~30%), chased by Terra Zero, Heineken 0.0, and Sober Carpenter. Details in PART 04.

■ Why Non-Alc & Healthy Pleasure Became a "Category" Now

6/1

Asahi Style Free (zero-sugar) Korea launch — imported + non-alc crossover

Following last issue's San Miguel feature, this issue tackles Non-Alc & Healthy Pleasure head-on. The point is one: non-alc is no longer a "substitute" for expectant mothers/drivers, but a "core growth category" that liquor companies use to offset declining core business. HiteJinro's Q1 2026 sales fell 3.6% YoY, yet its non-alc/light lines grew double digits in the same period. We summarize what this structural shift means for wholesale sales in four findings.

Sources: Euromonitor · OB Beer & HiteJinro IR · DailyPop “HiteJinro earnings dip, non-alc rises,” 2026-05-18 · Insight 2026-04-24 · NewsTomato “Cass expands non-alc channels,” 2026-03-30 · some figures are estimates/consensus.

■ Non-Alc & Healthy Pleasure — 4 Findings

Search stable, market surging · the sober generation · 4 channel axes · wholesale sales actions

■ Finding ① The "Sober" Generation — Drinking Culture Itself Has Changed

Among those in their 20s–30s, "drinking lightly" rather than "until drunk" has become the norm (OhmyNews 2026-05-02, SportsQ 2026-05-27). Healthy pleasure—enjoying health and self-care—has entered drinking occasions, cementing an attitude that keeps alcohol's social function while shedding its downsides. On Instagram, #SoberCurious · #lightweight-drinker · #day-beer · #no-alcohol-gathering · #mocktail have become everyday hashtags.

■ Finding ② Search Is Stable, but the Market Grew 5× in 5 Years — "Structural Growth"

Non-alc's search index stabilized after its June 2024 peak (100), but the market is projected from ~₩20B (2022) to ₩95.6B (2027) (Euromonitor). Same pattern as last issue's San Miguel — a product that grows via channels/sales, not search trends. At E-mart, light-beer sales rose +32% YoY; non-alc is also growing double digits. As the only growing line while the core business (regular beer) declines, makers shifted strategy from "sideline" to "core."

■ Finding ③ Brand Landscape — Cass 0.0 Dominant, Craft & Imports Chasing

Cass 0.0 leads the non-alc home market (~30%; 4-ZERO: alcohol, sugar, calorie, gluten). Hite's Terra Zero / Hite Zero 0.0 follow; imports include Heineken 0.0, Tsingtao Zero, Clausthaler, and craft entrants Sober Carpenter (Canada), Saenghwal Beer non-alc, Setz are arriving fast. The Jun 1 launch of Asahi Style Free (Japan, zero-sugar) adds imported + non-alc crossover demand. On-premise (venues) still lacks lineups — a big opportunity for wholesalers to lead.

■ Finding ④ Summer & World Cup — Two Short-Term Drivers Lifting Demand This Year

① Summer thirst/diet season (Jun–Aug) ② 2026 FIFA World Cup — all of Korea's group games are morning matches (Jun 12 Czechia 11:00, Jun 19 Mexico 10:00, Jun 25 South Africa 10:00), creating a new occasion: "morning cheering + driving + non-alc." Brands like Clausthaler already market "morning cheering beer." Hof, pocha, hotel lounges, and home-drinking all demand non-alc at once.

Wholesale Sales — 5 Points (Sewang Action Items)

▲ Seize first

- ① Propose on-premise non-alc lines — venues barely carry non-alc. Offer Cass 0.0 / Terra Zero + imports (Heineken 0.0) as a one-can option for "drivers, daytime drinkers, expectant mothers, dieters"
- ② World Cup morning-cheering package — Korea's morning matches from Jun 12. Pre-order "non-alc cheering sets" (regular + non-alc mixed bundles) for hof, pocha, hotels
- ③ Hotel/lounge mocktail / non-alc pairing — consult on non-alc cocktail, spritz, and non-alc wine lines for healthy-pleasure guests (this issue's Stereotype, Holiday Pub channels)
- ④ Summer lager + non-alc co-display — slot non-alc SKUs into summer lager orders to lift both check size and turnover
- ⑤ Differentiate with craft non-alc — defend price in wine-bar/dining channels with premium non-alc like Sober Carpenter, Saenghwal Beer non-alc

Conclusion — non-alc is not a "substitute" but the "4th summer-peak growth axis." Don't chase the top search term; the answer is display/pairing sales that put one non-alc row in every venue. This summer especially, with the one-off boost of morning World Cup games, early-June pre-orders decide season-long share.

5	Mid-large Korean / meat pub	★★★	Hanam · Sadang · Isu · Yeouido	₩40–70k	Steady group-dining demand · makgeolli/traditional pairing

NOT ADVISED

① Standalone highball bar — search range-bound; risky without concept combination / ② Standalone whisky bar — spring decline after winter peak, hard to enter in low season / ③ Standalone soju pocha — summer low season, new-product hype cooling. We recommend shifting to combination/seasonal concepts. This year's variable: venues with even one non-alc row additionally capture drivers, daytime drinkers, dieters, and World Cup guests.
